Introducing Impress Global

Our commitment remains the same, to develop business management solutions that support the specific needs of our clients and fosters their growth. The release of Impress Global to the marketplace is the latest example of that dedication. So, why Impress Global? By completely updating the user interface and adding several options to configure the menus and workflow, Impress Global provides an improved and more efficient user experience. In addition, the solution has been developed on a Microsoft SQL database, offering users the streamlined ability to add new features, functionality, and applications that will scale as your business grows.

Leading Edge Technology

As a recognized best practice in the software industry, technology upgrades allow software providers to deliver new functionality, support more frequent releases, resolve limitations with software tools, and help their clients remain competitive. The greatest benefit of the technology refresh to the base framework that supports Impress Global is that it provides end-users a streamlined experience when working with the solution and interacting with their data. Older technologies will no longer limit development initiatives, allowing us to continue releasing additional functionality and new applications to support our customers.

Enhanced User Experience

Not all users are created equal, nor do all users work the same way. We recognize that, which is why we've developed Impress Global with an intuitive user interface and streamlined menu structure. The solution allows users to configure and personalize home screens and menu functions to be more efficient in their daily, periodic, or regular workflow. Dynamic task panes provide easy access to key information available all on one screen. This release of Global is just the beginning, as our development methodology is to continue to build solutions from the end-users' perspective and enhance the overall experience.

Comprehensive Functionality and Capabilities

Providing business solutions for growing and changing companies takes more than just the latest technology and a great user interface. It requires industry-specific functionality and capabilities. Impress Global meets that need with extended integration offerings to premier suppliers, eCommerce platforms, payment processors, and industry-best solutions that compliment Global, which means additional benefits for our customers. We're pleased to announce the solution also offers robust Warehouse Management System and Production Center applications built specifically to support the decorated apparel and promotional products industry and take your business further.
